Stay scam aware!

With the recent changes to testing rules fraudsters are impersonating the NHS by sending out text messages telling people to order a Covid-19 test. The message includes a link to a fake website, and asks for a delivery fee. The scam is used to steal personal details, like banking information, to be able to take money from your account.

If you are not sure about a link don't click on it and report it to the National Cyber Security Centre.

The NHS does sometimes include links in it's vaccine text messages, but won't ever ask you to buy a test or hand over any financial details.

How to report suspicious activity:

- Email forward phishing emails to report@phishing.gov.uk
- Text report scam texts to 7726 for free
- Websites report to the National Cyber Security Centre
- Phone call report the number to Action Fraud.

Guidance for care homes

All visitors to care homes should wear a face mask.

You should not enter a care home if you are feeling unwell, even with a negative Covid-19 test, and you've been fully vaccinated.

If you have any symptoms that suggest other transmissible viruses and infections, like a cough, high temperature, diarrhoea or vomiting, you should avoid visiting the care home until at least five days after you feel better. Other viruses such as flu and norovirus can be just as dangerous to residents in care homes.

Let's keep our loved ones safe.

Mandatory housing measures for poultry and captive birds set to be lifted

From 00:01 on Monday 2 May 2022, poultry and other captive birds will no longer need to be housed, unless they are in a Protection Zone, and will be allowed to be kept outside.

There has been over 100 cases confirmed cases of bird flu across the country since late October.

Scrupulous biosecurity is the most effective method of disease control available, and all bird keepers should apply enhanced measures at all times to prevent the risk of future outbreaks.
